stream5 READY, the powerful online video package

Because they change conventional user behaviour, online videos are revolutionising the media and advertising segment. More and more people use the Internet not simply as a source of information, but increasingly for entertainment or networking with friends. As the absolute focal point of this megatrend, online videos play an immensely important role in this context.

With stream5 READY, you can create your own, powerful online video platform in only a few easy steps. All you need is online access – you can find everything else on our website at www.stream5.tv. No downloads are required.

Three simple steps to your own online video platform:

s5 COCKPIT & s5 Flash Player

s5 COCKPIT: You control, administrate and publish your videos with a central video content management system called s5 COCKPIT. This is where you can upload, edit, create channels, compile playlists and publish videos.

s5 Flash Player: To make sure that your target group gets active, it is essential that your online video platform is user-friendly and that your content is easily distributed. With the s5 interactive package: embedding, social bookmarking, Tell a Friend, voting and rating are no problem at all.
